Exceptional achievements of Swakeleys School for Girls recognised by the Mayor of London

The Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan, has celebrated the exceptional performance of Swakeleys School for Girls in Hillingdon as part of his Schools for Success programme.

The school has been honoured for its commitment to reducing educational inequality and attaining exceptional results for children previously struggling academically.

Swakeleys School for Girls has been awarded a certificate for raising aspirations and ensuring all pupils make excellent progress. It has done so by focusing on high quality teaching and learning in every lesson every day, to ensure that all pupils can succeed.

Created in 2017, the Schools for Success programme was formed to enhance the support given to children from disadvantaged backgrounds. The programme acknowledges primary and secondary schools that prioritise progress for their lowest attaining pupils, are excelling in their performance overall and sharing their work with other schools through a series of webinars made available to all London schools.

The Mayor of London, Sadiq Khan, said: “I’d like to congratulate the staff of Swakeleys School for Girls for their exceptional work. We created Schools for Success to recognise the positive impact that teachers, headteachers, teaching assistants, support staff and governors are making every day to support students and reduce inequalities, and this school’s commitment to being supportive and inclusive sets a great example. Covid-19 has presented unforeseen challenges across our city but Swakeleys School for Girls has done a fantastic job in maintaining excellence during a very difficult time. Working together we can make sure that no young Londoner is left behind”

Sue Pryor, Headteacher said: “I am delighted to receive this recognition for the hard work and commitment of our staff, governors and pupils. We are a truly comprehensive school with a very diverse intake and are passionate in the belief that all young people can and will achieve success”.

Notes

- The school would normally be invited to an awards ceremony at City Hall to celebrate their success but unfortunately that is not currently possible due to Covid-19.
- Approximately six per cent of London schools are eligible to be members of the Schools for Success programme
