

Helping Young People to Think Critically about Fake News and Prejudice

Free Workshops for Parents and Carers in Hillingdon

This session is designed to provide practical tips and strategies to parents and carers to help them to educate their young people to think critically about fake news and understand the harms of prejudice.

Parents and carers are able to choose from one of two dates:

- Thursday 16th May 2024, 6.30-8.30pm, delivered online via Microsoft Teams
- Wednesday 22nd May 2024, 10am-12pm, delivered face-to-face at Hillingdon Autistic Care and Support, UB3 1PB

In addition to the training, participants will also gain access to an online portal of further support and guidance, including tools to help educate their young people about the harms of fake news and prejudice.

Aims:

- Understand the impact of misinformation and fake news, and why it is important for their young people to think critically about the information they receive
- Understand how current social media platforms operate and how to safeguard their young people from fake news online
- Be equipped with confidence, skills and knowledge to effectively discuss fake news and prejudice with their young people
- Have access to further support and resources for discussing these issues with their young people
